

HISTORY BUFF Itinerary

DAY 1

What better place to kick-off your history expedition than the New Brunswick Museum, located uptown in Market Square. You could spend hours studying the eclectic collections of art, perusing traveling and permanent exhibits, examining fascinating artifacts, and browsing galleries devoted to New Brunswick industry and our ship-building legacy.

Time-hopping is hungry work. Luckily, you're already in Market Square and surrounded by a deliciously diverse mix of dining options. Bon appetit!

DAY 2

Start the day with breakfast in Market Square before continuing your history lesson with a 2-hour guided tour of uptown Saint John, hosted by the New Brunswick Museum and Stonehammer UNESCO Global Geopark.

After lunch, stick close to the city with a stroll down to Harbour Passage or a visit to the Reversing Rapids or Irving Nature Park (all sites within Stonehammer UNESCO Global Geopark). Each bares proof of the Bay of Fundy's powerful effects on our region over billions of years.

DAY 3

Today you're heading to Carleton Martello Tower. Pack a picnic lunch to enjoy on the sprawling green hill that hugs the tower before learning about its historical significance in defending our country (the awesome view from the top of the tower is just a bonus.)

Journey back uptown to an 18th century general store for charming stories and a souvenir to commemorate your stay prior to settling in on a breezy patio to eat and toast the evening away.

DAYS 4 & 5

Venture further outside the city to explore more of our natural history. Not only is the Fundy Trail the birth place of the Atlantic Ocean, but it's home to a Sea Captains' Burial Grounds where you'll uncover a bit of local lore. And if you're captivated by geology, Stonehammer UNESCO Global Geopark has over 60 sites throughout the area (12 of which offer experiences dedicated to our renowned geology).

Stay as long as you like and get to know us better – we love sharing our stories with you.

When you're Canada's oldest incorporated city, history is carved into every stone, from the buildings to the cliffs that hang over the Bay of Fundy. Here are some ways you can explore Saint John's storied past.
