HISTORIC SITES & MUSEUMS

When you're the oldest incorporated city in Canada, everywhere you go is historic.

DISCOVER THE SAINT JOHN CITY MARKET

The Saint John City Market, the oldest continuing farmer's market in Canada, is a National Historic Site. It's also where Saint John goes for local produce, fresh meats, the best fish and chips, handmade crafts and a great cup of coffee. Named Canada's 2013 Great Public Space – the market is the beating heart of this historic city.

MUSTER AT THE CARLETON MARTELLO TOWER

Built for the War of 1812, this tough stone fort is a classic example of a Martello Tower – a small circular defense structure first built during the Napoleonic Wars. A concrete fire command post was added to the Carleton Martello Tower in WWII to help defend Saint John harbour. A National Historic Site, the Carleton Martello Tower is perched on a high plateau overlooking Saint John, and has a commanding view of the entire harbour. While the historic tower is currently closed for a major restoration, visitors can explore the grounds and discover more about the fort in the nearby visitor centre.

STEP BACK IN TIME AT BARBOUR'S GENERAL STORE

Barbour's General Store resembles an authentic 18th century general store that was lovingly restored as a museum in celebration of Canada's 1967 centennial and Barbours' 100th year in business. Located at St. Andrew's Bicentennial Green in the city centre.

STEP THROUGH TIME AT LOYALIST HOUSE

Loyalist House, the former home of the Merritt family – loyalists who emigrated from the United States after the Revolutionary War – was constructed in 1817. It was one of the few surviving structures after the Great Fire of 1877. A National Historic Site, the home's Georgian features remain largely untouched, including its original grand staircase – which remains as it was so many years ago. Acquired by the New Brunswick Historical Society in 1959, the home is an amazing example of the quality of early Saint John craftsmanship.

SWING BY THE KING'S SQUARE BANDSTAND

The King Edward VII Memorial Bandstand, with its copper roof and its filigree metal framework, was constructed in 1908 as a gift to the city – donated by the City Cornet Band. It quickly became a favourite location for musical interludes in King's Square.

TOUR THE CARNEGIE BUILDING

Since its dedication on June 24, 1904, the Carnegie Building has remained an architectural jewel in Saint John. This lovely Beaux-Arts style building was formerly the home of one of the oldest public libraries in Canada, built with a donation of $50,000, given to the City of Saint John by the famous American philanthropist, Andrew Carnegie. Today the building houses the Saint John Arts Centre.

WANDER THROUGH THE OLD (LOYALIST) BURIAL GROUNDS

The Old Burial Ground is referred to by many names, most commonly the Loyalist Burial Grounds. The leafy, peaceful and park-like area is the final resting place of some of Saint John's earliest settlers – including many Americans loyal to the British crown, who emigrated from the United States during and after the American Revolutionary War (1775 - 1783). The earliest gravestone is that of Coonradt Hendricks, dated July 13, 1784. The Old Burial Ground was carefully restored by the Irving family in 1995, in memory of the late K. C. Irving (1899-1992), founder of the Irving group of companies. Sydney Street and King Street East

LEARN ABOUT OUR HISTORIC CHURCHES AND CEMETERIES

Saint John is blessed with a wonderful collection of churches. Their spires and bell-towers are an important part of the Saint John skyline, just as their traditions and rituals are an important part of the lives of so many in our community. You can enjoy the art and architecture of these wonderful buildings, but a visit isn't complete without a stroll through their historic cemeteries and burial grounds. Wander amongst the historic grave markers – some dating back to 1783 – and stand in the history of these quiet places.

TRACE YOUR ROOTS

For eons a summering place for the Maliseet and Mi'kmaq First Nations, Saint John is the first place many immigrants set foot on Canadian soil. From the arrival of Samuel de Champlain and Pierre Dugua de Monts in 1604 to the flood of Loyalists who arrived in the late 1700s and from the thousands of Irish settlers who arrived before, during and after the Potato Famine to settlers from Europe and the Middle East who were processed through the Partridge Island quarantine station, now a National Historic Site, until after WWII, Saint John has always been a place to start fresh. CROSS-COUNTRY SKIING

Our frozen river system attracts many cross-country skiers in the winter months. It is fabulous exercise and a wonderful perspective on the mainland we don't often get the opportunity to see. Take your skis for a spin on Rockwood Park's system of 50 km (31.1 mi) of trails and then, head across Lily Lake for a hot chocolate when you're done.

Alternately, Elmhurst Outdoors (page 40) in Erbs Cove features 12 km (7.5 mi) of groomed trails for cross-country skiing. Rent equipment there or bring your own.

FIND YOURSELF GEOCACHING

Geocaching and Earth Caching are popular pastimes, with thousands of thoughtfully placed or identified caches just waiting for you to locate them. If you're just starting out, head on over to Inside Out Nature Centre (page 33) in Rockwood Park – they'll outfit you, show you how it's done, and then send you out searching for 10-12 custom caches.

GET HOOKED ON FISHING

Sturgeon, trout and more! If you're hankering for a day on the water – just a simple jaunt to the shoreline, and the calm rhythm of casting and retrieving – we have great news. Non-residents do not require fishing licenses for tidal waters in and around Saint John. Thankfully our tides are huge, so that means large stretches of our river system are available for license-free, non-salmon fishing. Fishing licenses are required for lakes, so if dropping a line into the stocked lakes of Rockwood Park is in your plan, you'll need a license. If salmon fishing is on your agenda, please note you may require a guide. All the information you'd ever need is available on the Natural Resources section of the Government of New Brunswick website. Plan your own adventure or book a fishing tour with experienced guides.

WHERE to STAY

There are two programs in New Brunswick to assure visitors that the properties listed have met or exceeded standards for amenities, cleanliness, repair and staff courtesy.

All CAA/AAA rated properties must meet the same basic requirements for cleanliness and hospitality. A rating of one to five diamonds tells visitors what type of experience to expect, from no-frills to highly personalized.

The Canada Select / Camping Select Program goes one step further by providing nationally consistent standards and a recognized star rating system which awards properties (1) to (5) stars.
